Vishwaroopam 2013 - Tamil Subtitles - DRiP - X264 - AC3 - 5.1. Reel Rip. Follow me on: Thursday, March 18, 2012 The Effervescent Author I have these teeth right now, they're effervescent. You probably don't want to see them because they look like they're about to explode, so I promise no more pictures of them! Okay, this is serious! I'm trying to wake up and realize the effervescent author is me. I have these teeth you see, no not those ones (haha) but this one right here. It's the most effervescent of all. I let myself get too excited about my book coming out and when that happened I couldn't stop talking about it. And even though I'm getting tired of all the effervescent stuff it's still me. I think there's a little hint of effervescent left in me. I'm letting myself get excited about my book, about my amazing family, about all the wonderful people who made it happen. It doesn't matter that it hasn't happened yet, it will happen when it's supposed to.

Q: Dropping columns from a table I've got a table that has a column called "something" and a column called "somethingelse". I want to copy the "something" column into the "somethingelse" column, and eventually drop the "something" column entirely.

A: Try this: UPDATE tableName SET colA = colB, colC = colD To remove this column, just give the column name as well.
